

Solution Brief

Insight Security Awareness Assessment

“With all the changes observed in the cyber threat landscape and the challenges created by the COVID-19 pandemic, there is still a long way before cyberspace becomes a trustworthy and safe environment for everyone.”¹

Business challenge

One of the biggest challenges organisations face is staying familiar with the latest security threats. Regulatory compliance is coming in some countries, and a data breach can lead to fines and loss of reputation for an organisation.

Security isn't just a technical problem. It's also a people problem, and keeping an organisation secure requires that all people in that organisation have an awareness of security. With the advent of home working becoming commonplace, the distinction between work and personal life is becoming blurred. Thus employees must know how to behave securely in general, not just specifically at work.

Our solution

We help clients with the human element of security. Insight assists by creating a baseline from the client's current situation, selecting and creating sponsors, setting up security champions, creating a training program, developing a communication plan and all other aspects of change and resistance management.

Service components

- Kick-off workshop
- Creation of a baseline including an attack simulation to check current status (Microsoft specific)
- Analysis of baseline
- Best Practice Workshop

Business outcome

We will help the client build and implement a security awareness strategy plan.

Benefits

Employees are educated based on current events in the security industry. As the security awareness assessment is based on the latest security threats, this leads to less risk of being compromised and having a data breach.

Staying compliant with regulations ensures that company reputation is maintained.
